

GREG HANDEL

VICE PRESIDENT, EDUCATION AND TALENT

Greg Handel is vice president of education and talent at the Detroit Regional Chamber. In this role, he is responsible for the Chamber's efforts to ensure that employers in the region have access to the talent needed to thrive in the 21st century global environment.

Handel oversees the development and advocacy of the Chamber's public education policy and is also responsible for the Detroit Promise, which offers a tuition-free path to college for every Detroit high school graduate who resides in the city. He also oversees Detroit Drives Degrees, an initiative of the Chamber's Forward Detroit economic development strategy, designed to increase the percentage of adults throughout the region with a quality postsecondary credential.

Handel serves on the boards of the Michigan College Access Network and Trillium Public School Academy and is active on the Coalition for the Future of Detroit Schoolchildren. He also represents the Chamber on numerous other committees, advisory boards, and partnerships dedicated to improving educational outcomes across the region and state.

Handel earned a Bachelor of Science degree in economics from the University of Detroit and is a graduate of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Institute for Organizational Management and the Center for Creative Leadership. He is also a graduate of Leadership Detroit Class XXII.
